

Parking fine

Hundreds of thousands of people visit Maastricht every year. The city was not built to handle the growing quantity of road traffic, however, so to keep it a pleasant, accessible place for visitors, residents and businesses alike, paid parking has been introduced in a large part of the city.

In order to maintain the accessibility and the quality of life for everyone, the city surveillance service (team Handhaven) enforces – among other things - the parking regulations very strictly.

Appeal against a parking fine

If you disagree with the parking fine, you can lodge an appeal within six weeks. Note: first you have to pay the parking fine. Your appeal should contain the following information:

- your name and address
- date of dispatch
- number of the parking fine (aanslagnummer) and the registration number of the vehicle in question
- a description of your appeal
- your signature

Do not forget to enclose the original parking fine and to mention the data of your bank:

- name account holder
- account number
- IBAN code
- BIC code
- address
- postal code
- domicile
